

Attendance

Our attendance target for every child is 97%.

We want all of our children to meet their attendance target, because lost days equal lost learning opportunities. What does good attendance look like?

All children have 175 non-school days each year, so routine medical appointments and holidays should take place within these days. That still leaves plenty of time for family fun days and trips!

Excellent attendance – your child will have the best start.	Good – although it is below target, with continued good attendance your child will be on the right track.	Worrying – your child may miss important steps in their learning, making it harder for them to make good progress.		Serious concern – this level of absence is detrimental to your child and could result in local authority or court action.
